daughter of Captain Annis, who was in command of the barketine Hamlin when she was sighted in distress on January 3 off the Island of Navaesa, Captain Annis died three days after assistance reached his vessel. Miss Annis joined the Hamlin in Philadelphia last October.

The Hamlin left St. Lucia on December 5, bound for Mobile, Ala. She carriest a crew of eight men—the captain, two mates and live seamen. Two days after leaving St. Lucia Miss Annis became ill with malarial fever. The next day three of the sailors were afflicted with the same disease. There were now only two sailors, and a day later the remaining two sailors, and a day later the remaining two sailors, and a day later the remaining two sailors, and a day later the sailors grew worse, and Captain Annis and the mates were obliged to do the work of the sailors grew worse, and Captain Annis and lise first officer were also taken ill. The second officer now was left alone to work the ship.

The sailors were too weak to do any work, and Miss Annis became a heroine. She aroused herself from a sick bed and muscal not only her father, but the sailors. For six days and nights she tended the sick and dying and looked after the wants of the sailors, two of whom were able to crawl around and give the second officer a little help. On the morning of December 15 the Humbin sighted the mail liner Newport, and Miss Annis precied medicine. The first officer died on December 17, and Captain Annis followed him a day later.

Although sorely distressed, Miss Annis never lost her presence of mind. The second officer a little help. On the morning of December 17, and Captain Annis followed him a day later.

Although sorely distressed, Miss Annis never lost her presence of mind. The second officer agreed to take her into Aux Cayes, a pert in Hayti. When Miss Annis pot there she gave way. For days her life was despaired of, When the Almo was leaving the port all the sailors of the Hamlin, who had in the meantime recovered, came aboard and bade a tearful farewell to Miss Annis Philaselphia, Jan. 15.—The executive committee of the Indian Rights Association metaliere yesterday and formulated and adopted an appeal to the citizens of the country in behalf of the Indians. The appeal reviews the work that has been done among the Indians by the various denominational bodies and the causes of the present unrising among them. It defines the property of the present unrising among them. denominational bodies and the causes of the present uprising among them. It de-clares that the most important requisite is a single responsible, competent head for the management of Indian affairs, who shall report to the President directly. The Indian service should be wholly free from the interference of partisan politics, which shall continue its policy undisturbed by changing administrations. The appeal also recommends that Army officers be de-tached to serve as Indian agents, and that sufficient money be appropriated by Con-gress to permit the education of all In-dian youths and the maintenance of a thoroughly effective service.

SEIZED BY THE SHERIFF.

The United Electric Traction Company Has a Large Indebtedness. New York, Jan. 15.-The sheriff has evied upon the office furniture of the United Electric Traction Company, at No. 115 Broadway, whose factory is at Marion, Three attachments have been en-N. J. Three attachments have been entered against the company, aggregating about $1,000, and there is a judgment for $801 against it. The total amount of the unsecured indebtedness of the company is reported to be $150,000 and it is claimed that the company has very large assets.

Lee Daft has brought suit against the company and others to recover $50,000 and to set aside a contract for the exchange of stock of the Daft Company for that of the United Electric Traction Company and to recover property belonging that of the United Electric Traction Com-pany and to recover property belonging to the Daft Company from the United Electric Traction Company. Officials of the company claim that its finances are being materially strengthened, but admit that in consequence of the tight money market they have asked some indulgence of their resulting. of their creditors.

The United States Electric Traction
The United States in March.

Company was incorporated in March, 1800, under New Jersey laws, with an au-thorized capital stock of $7,000,000. The company was mainly developed through Robert Lenox Belknap, formerly treasurer John C. Barron, who, it is said, invested a large amount of money in it. On De-cember 15 the company gave a chattel mortgage for $700,000 to the Mercautile Trust Company on franchises to secure bends.

It is said that $1,000,000 of the preferred stock was issued for eash, a large part of which was used in paying off the debts of the companies whose liabilities were as-sumed, leaving the company about $250,-000 working capital. The business of equipping electric railways tied up a good deal of money and collections have been poor.

FOUR HUNDRED RESIGN.

The Strike on the Milwaukee and St. Paul Road. CRIEAGO, ILL., Jan. 15.—The threatened strike of the station agents and operators of the Milwankee and St. Paul road has ceased to be a matter of doubt. Last night 400 men tendered their resignations to the company to take effect immediately. Most of those who went out are stationed on the Prairie-du-Chien and Kansas City divisions. They will be followed to-day by a large number of the divisions of the system.

FITZSIMMONS WINS. Dempsey a Mere Punching Bag for the

New Zenlander New Ontrass, Jan. 15.—The great fight for the middle-weight championship of the world, between Jack Dempsey of New York and Bob Fitzsimmons of New York and Bob Fitzsimmons of New Zealand, at the Olympic Club rooms last night, lasted exactly forty-nine minutes, and for the second time in his career the Nonparell was vanquished and the wonder from the antipoles succeeds to the title. Pempsey made a game light, although at no time was he anything more than a mere punching bag for the New Zealander, who, from start to finish, drove Dennisev around the ring at will and hit him hard and often.

mere punching bag for the New Zealander, who, from start to finish, drove Demusee around the ring at will and hit him hard and often.

The battle, which lasted thirteen rounds, ended in the complete knock out of the American champion, who would have succumbed to the other's prowess several rounds before had it not been for the leniency of the referee.

Demysey was clearly outclassed, and, although he was the favorite in the betting, and had the sympathy of the large andience, it was easily apparent that the ungainly and awkward Australian was a far better fighter. He delivered his blows at will and with good effect, and showed the better side of his nature when, in the last round, he asked Dempsey to stop.

The story of that last round will live in the history of the ring. It is as follows:

It was all day with Dempsey. He started to spar with his man, but he was too fred to stop the jab which the wonderful foreigner aimed at him. Pitzsimmons long right landed heavily on Jack's left ear. Jack staggered around the ring and fell in a heap. He soon arose and made a heroic rally. It was ineffectual, however, for a light left-handed jab in the chin knocked him spinning again. "He's out," everychody cried, but the game lighter was on his feet again before eight seconds clarsed. Fitzsimmons, standing ready to deliver a finishing touch, said:

"Quit, Jack; I don't want to hurt you any more." "Quit, Jack; I don't want to hurt you any more."

Carroll twined his arms around Fitzsimmons neck and kissed him, while the latter remarked:
"Well, Jimmy, we won't starve this winter."

As a rule, men who attend exhibitions of this kind are not easily affected, but when the Nonparell went down for the last time the crowd cried:
"Dempsey is as good as a dozen whipped men yet." but Dempsey was beaten.
"Now, look out." cried Fitzsimmons, and he swung his right. The blow caught Dempsey just below the left ear. He fell to the floor insensible. A hundred men counted the seconds, and when ten was reached Jack was still on his back. "Fitzsimmons wins!" should the referere.

Then a wild cheer went up for the win-Jack was carried to his corner by Mc-Auliffe, and when his senses returned half a minute later he wept like a child.

having whipped every man he has faced. Last night's battle was his seventeenth ring fight, and in winning it he won the largest purse ever offered men in his class, middle-weight. middle-weight.

The sporting men of this city are in a jubilant state of mind to-day, for most of them pinned their faith to the prophetic words of Carroll and backed the foreigner, while the Eastern men, who lost their money, are wondering how it happened. Every one, however, concedes that it was a fair fight and the best man won.

Efforts are being made to bring about a fight between Jack McAnliffe and Billy Myer for the light-weight championship, and the match will probably be made.

THE WESTINGHOUSE TROUBLE.

Half a Million Dollars Unable to Cover Liabilities. Privature, Jan. 15.—The advisory board of Pittsburg brokers appointed to disburse $500,000 which had been raised by the ests controlled by George Westinghouse, jr., over the financial stringency met vesterday and decided that $500,000 was not sufficient to accomplish the object sought. It was decided that the money should be returned to the contributors to the fund.

should be returned to the contributors to the fund.
George Westinghouse, jr., who has been in New York for several days for the purpose of placing $3,000,000 of preferred stock recently issued by the Westinghouse Electric Company, telegraphed last evening to a member of the advisory board that he was meeting with success in his efforts to place the stock, and that if no obstacles were thrown in his way the $500,000 promised by Pittsburgers would not be needed.

THE PRANKS OF A SPOOK. A Festive Ghost Terrorizes a Hazleton Household.

Hazzerov, Jan. 15 .- The people of this ity and vicinity have been much exer cised for the last three weeks over the peculiar doings of a spook who has been playing havor with the furniture and peace of Charles Bontz, a respectable and intelligent resident of West Hardeton.

Last evening the street for a whole block was crowded with excited people who discussed the queer doings of the spook. The family, consisting of Mr. Bontz and three small children, were found in a high state of excitement. For some time after a reporter had entered the house nothing occurred, and he was about to take his departure when a chair on the opposite side of the room slid across the floor and fell upon his toes.

The children began crying and Bontz trembled with excitement. A few moments afterward a piece of soap lying on the washstand at one corner of the room was carried swiftly through the air and deposited with a bang in the opposite corner. A picture that was hanging on the wall face out was turned in, and another that hung near fell to the floor with a crash.

Mr. Bontz said they began about three weeks ago, when he was living down on thest-nut street, and, although none of his family have been injured, he has not experienced a moment's peace since. After-enduring them for two weeks he moved to West Hazleton, where he expected they would cease. But he had no sooner been settled in his new home than they began again.

A FARMER'S INHUMANITY

He Plunges His Wife Into an Covered Pond. Duntis, Jan. 15.-A terrible tale of cruelty, or attempted murder, comes from Magherafelt, near Coleraine. From the various accounts received it seems that a farmer of that neighborhood, who had not been on good terms with his wife for some time past, on Tuesday attempted either to kill her or to subject the unforthe to kill her or to subject the unfor-tunate woman to most cruel punishment. He broke a hole in the ice which covered the stream flowing near his farm, and dragging the woman down to the spot, plunged her, head foremost, into the icy water, her feet alone being visible, and keeping her submerged until she was al-most drowned.

most drowned.

When rescued by some farm hands of the neighborhood this unfortunate victim of a husband's cruefly was insensible and stiff with cold. After being taken to her home, under skillful treatment she was restored to life. A short time after regaluling consciousness, however, shegave birth to a dead child. The woman is in a critical condition. Her brutal husband has been placed under arrest after narrowly escaping death at the hands of his enraged neighbors.

COMPOSITION OF KOCH'S LYMPH. Glycerine Extract from Cultivation of Tuberculosis Bacilli. Bright, Jan. 15.—As was announced would be the case, the composition of Professor Koch's curative lymph was to day made public by authority. The lymph consists of a glycerine extract ob-tained by the pure cultivation of tubercutained by the pure cultivation of tuberculosis bacilli.

Durain, Jan. 15.—Professor Virchow, lecturing yesterday before his class, said that post mortem examinations of some bodies of persons who had died after being treated with Koch's lymph revealed the same symptoms as are observed in the case of death from abdominal typhus. He was inclined to the belief that the lymph was responsible for this condition.
Dr. Gutman, following, reported a dozen cases that came under his observation which had been nearly cured by the lymph.
He argued that the advance cases observed by Virchow and others merely showed that the lymph should be used only in the early stages of the disease.
